FIRST CAUSE FOR DISCIPLINE

(Sexual Exploitation of Patient)

8. Respondent is subject to disciplinary action under sections 729 and 2234, subdivision (f), of the Code in that he sexually exploited a patient. The circumstances are as follows:

9. During 2014, Confidential Patient (CP)¹, was treated at University Psychiatry Associates (UPA), for adult ADHD, and was prescribed medication. On or about May 28, 2015, CP requested to start psychotherapy at UPA to supplement the medication regimen. She began seeing Respondent, who was then a resident in the psychiatry program at UPA, associated with UCSF Fresno.

10. Respondent had approximately ten psychotherapy appointments with CP, beginning with the first appointment on or about June 8, 2015, and ending with the final appointment on or about August 14, 2016. CP’s appointments with Respondent were scheduled to be the last appointment of the week, in the late afternoon on Fridays.

11. Shortly after beginning psychotherapy with CP, Respondent began an escalating series of boundary violations with CP. He disclosed personal details of his life, beginning with details about his childhood and education and escalating to information about his personal relationships with women. He disclosed personal details of the lives of other physicians and employees at UPA. He began paying CP compliments on her appearance and intelligence. CP reported that some of the more personal remarks he made to her in therapy appeared to play on her insecurities, such as when he commented that he was surprised that she maintained religious beliefs despite her higher education level, or when he referred to her as looking like an “ageing supermodel.”

12. He began sending text messages to CP, first about her treatment and then becoming more personal in nature. He arranged to meet her, ostensibly for therapy, outside the UPA clinic at a local Starbucks on or about July 3, 2015 when the clinic was closed. Respondent focused on

1 sexual themes early in their therapy sessions, advising CP that she should dress more revealingly
2 and be more confident and open about her sexual nature. He expressed in therapy that he believed 3 most patients were unhappy due to lack of sexual fulfillment, often based on their refusal to 4 discuss personal issues that people found uncomfortable to discuss. He encouraged her to speak 5 about potential sexual abuse or sexual repression she may have experienced.

6 13. During the therapy sessions in the beginning of July 2015, Respondent invited CP to 7 refer to him by his first name when they were alone. CP did refer to him by his first name in 8 texts, but did not feel comfortable doing so in person. Respondent complimented CP frequently
9 on her personality and character traits. Respondent began using profanity during their sessions,
10 commenting that other patients did not like when he used profanity and asking CP how she felt 11 about it. CP told Respondent that it did not bother her because she did not want him to believe 12 that she was narrow-minded. Around this time, Respondent began telling CP more details about 13 his personal life and troubles and inviting her to give him advice. He told CP about his first 14 sexual experience, about the multiple affairs he had engaged in with married women or when he 15 was himself married, and explained the troubles he was having in his current marriage since he 16 began an affair with his wife's niece. He told CP about other patients he was treating and 17 explained some of the frustrations he had with these patients.

18 14. When CP was required to cancel a therapy session in the middle of July, she texted
19 him about it since they had been communicating by text regularly at this point. Respondent told 20 her that the receptionist would call to reschedule and that she should not disclose to the 21 receptionist or any other person that they had been texting each other. On or about July 20, 2015,
22 or July 24, 2015, during approximately the sixth therapy session with Respondent, CP admitted
23 that she had romantic feelings for him. From that point on Respondent and CP texted more often 24 and more explicitly. Respondent and CP texted plans to each other to meet on July 29, 2015 at 25 CP's house. Respondent sent CP an e-gift card for iTunes and suggested she purchase a specific 26 work critical of religion. On or about July 28, 2015, Respondent called CP's telephone and left 27 several voicemail messages. These messages were long and rambling, expressing thoughts and 28 opinions about their relationship.

1 15. On or about July 29, 2015, Respondent went to CP's house and brought wine. The 2 two drank wine and sat on her couch. She then invited him into her bedroom where they kissed.
3 He performed oral sex on her. They attempted to have vaginal sex but Respondent was unable to 4 sustain an erection. In texts Respondent sent to CP after that evening, he suggested initially that 5 he was unable to sustain an erection due to the amount of wine he drank, and later stated that it
6 was because she wore unattractive grey sweatpants. Finally, he commented in texts that he was 7 anxious due to their surroundings and stated that it was not unusual for him to have difficulty
8 sustaining an erection when he was not comfortable in a location. Approximately the next day he 9 sent her a text message with a photograph of his erect penis. The caption stated that this is what 10 he looked like when he was relaxed.

11 16. At their next therapy session on or about July 31, 2015, Respondent ordered a sex toy
12 for CP and had it shipped to her home address. He mentioned that his current girlfriend found it
13 helpful in their relationship. On or about August 8, 2015, Respondent texted CP in the evening 14 explaining that he had a fight with his girlfriend and would like to come over to her house. He 15 arrived and they attempted to have sex again. It was a more successful encounter than the 16 previous time they had attempted to have sex, but Respondent still had difficulty maintaining an 17 erection, which he attributed to the use of condoms.

18 17. The following day, CP began to have misgivings about the relationship with 19 Respondent. She had learned that Respondent had left his minor daughter at home alone when he 20 was at her house and that he had told her about CP and asked her not to tell other adults in her life
21 about his relationship with CP. This caused CP distress, and she blocked Respondent's cell
22 phone number. She later unblocked the number and told Respondent that she had done so.
23 Respondent told CP he was upset over this. On or about August 14, 2015, during a therapy
24 session, Respondent appeared more cold and distant and maintained normal patient-therapist 25 boundaries for the early part of the session. Midway through the session Respondent inquired if 26 something was wrong that had caused CP to seem distant. CP offered a false explanation to 27 Respondent, and he began to react more warmly toward her as he had done in previous sessions.
28 CP continued to have substantial misgivings about the status of their relationship.

1 18. On or about August 16, 2015, Respondent again went over to CP's house, explaining 2 that he was only there to talk to her because he was upset. The two discussed his frustrations with 3 his girlfriend. CP was surprised by Respondent's level of concern over his girlfriend's status as 4 Respondent had previously told CP that his relationship with the girlfriend was over and he had 5 given her one month to find a new place to live and move out of his residence.

6 19. After their first two sexual encounters, Respondent's texts to CP became sexually
7 explicit. He asked her to write out and send him her sexual fantasies and indicated he would do
8 the same. He texted explicit messages to her specifying sexual acts he wanted to perform on her 9 including choking and spanking her and engaging in anal sex. He inquired whether she had 10 concerns with any of these activities. CP responded that she had fears of choking and would not 11 want to do that. CP expressed concerns in therapy sessions that if she participated in sexually 12 submissive behaviors that it might be negative for her psychological well being, but Respondent 13 assured her that to find sexual fulfillment and happiness she needed to act out these sexual 14 fantasies.

15 20. Respondent and CP planned to meet at her house for a third sexual encounter on or 16 about August 19, 2015. In advance of the meeting, Respondent texted CP specific instructions on 17 how he wanted her to shave her body hair and pubic hair before the meeting. When Respondent
18 arrived at CP's house she expressed a preference to put off having anal sex and Respondent
19 responded that "you'll either love it or you'll hate it." Respondent stated to CP that "you're not 20 the only person in the world with a vagina." CP became concerned that Respondent would not 21 continue to be interested in her and so did not raise any further protest to the sexual activities.
22 Respondent and CP proceeded to have vaginal and anal sex. CP found Respondent to be sexually 23 aggressive at that sexual encounter and she developed a bruise on her shoulder from where her
24 shoulder hit a footboard during sex. After the encounter Respondent was more affectionate to CP 25 and she felt as though she was receiving positive attention from him again.

26 21. On or about August 23, 2015, Respondent and CP had their final sexual encounter,
27 again at her house. CP found Respondent to be very impersonal and found the experience painful 28 and degrading. They had vaginal and anal sex. CP realized that she was bleeding from the 1 rectum after the encounter, but Respondent did not tell her that while it was occurring.

2 Respondent was impatient to leave after they had sex. He gave CP a brief hug and left. After 3 Respondent left, CP realized that there was something very wrong in her relationship with 4 Respondent and told a friend about her experiences. CP's friend told her that she believed 5 Respondent was a sexual predator and that CP would be better not continuing any type of 6 relationship with him.

7 22. On or about August 26, 2015, CP called UPA and spoke to the receptionist explaining 8 that she wanted to cancel any further therapy treatments with Respondent. She did not tell the 9 receptionist about the nature of her relationship with Respondent, but instead made excuses to 10 avoid having to explain why she was terminating therapy.

11 23. On or about August 28, 2015, Respondent sent an email to CP. The content of the 12 email was the following: "It's a pity and very saddening that you won't communicate to the one 13 person who was trying to understand you and help in a genuine and completely undemanding
14 way. For what it's worth, nothing has changed from my end and if you ever feel the need to 15 talk...look me up." CP responded to that email on or about September 1, 2015, explaining that 16 she was terminating therapy with him, and requested that he not contact her again. She 17 nonetheless explained that "I harbor no animus towards you or motivation to cause you any 18 trouble, so please don't worry about that."

19 24. On or about September 1, 2015, Respondent emailed CP back in response to her 20 message. The subject line of the email was "Very sad!!!" The content of the email was as 21 follows:

22 Despite your desire not to hear a response from me...sometimes there's the 23 requirement of a modicum of decency considering the extent of the situation. So if 24 your excuse is being based in financial and logistics constraints via-a-via childcare...with all due respect that is utter nonsense.

25 You could at least make your feelings known...truthfully!

26 But if you choose to stay silent...so be it! Don't worry about anything from my 27 end...I only react to flagrant violations of trust.
28

1 CP did not respond to that email. On or about October 11, 2015, Respondent sent a final
2 email to CP stating, "Just a shout-out to say hello! Hope you are doing well. I was reading
3 something today that reminded me of you..." CP did not respond to that email.

4 25. Respondent's conduct as described above constitutes sexual exploitation of a patient
5 in violation of section 729 of the Code, thus subjecting Respondent's license to discipline.

6 SECOND CAUSE FOR DISCIPLINE

7 (Sexual Misconduct with a Patient)

8 26. Respondent is subject to disciplinary action under section 726 and 2234, subdivision 9 (f), of the Code in that he committed sexual misconduct with a patient. The circumstances are as 10 follows:

11 27. Paragraphs 8 through 25, above, are incorporated herein as if fully set forth.

12 28. Respondent's conduct, as set forth above, constitutes sexual misconduct with a patient
13 in violation of section 726 of the Code, thus subjecting Respondent's license to discipline.

14 THIRD CAUSE FOR DISCIPLINE

15 (Unprofessional Conduct/Gross Negligence)

16 29. Respondent is subject to disciplinary action under section 2234, subdivisions (b) and 17 (f), of the Code in that he committed gross negligence. The circumstances are as follows:

18 30. Paragraphs 8 through 25 are incorporated as if fully set forth herein.

19 31. Respondent was grossly negligent in his care and treatment of CP, for his acts 20 including, but not limited to, the following:

- 21 a. Having sexual relations with a patient;
- 22 b. Communicating with a patient using sexually explicit and unprofessional language;
- 23 c. Using his position of power and privileged information to exploit a psychiatric patient;
- 24 d. Meeting with a psychiatric patient outside the treatment setting;
- 25 e. Purchasing and giving gifts to a psychiatric patient;
- 26 f. Practicing outside his area of professional competence without supervision;
- 27 g. Disclosing sensitive, personal information about himself, coworkers and other patients;

28 and

1 h. Contacting a former patient without her consent after termination of the treatment.

2 FOURTH CAUSE FOR DISCIPLINE

3 (Conduct That Would Warrant Denial of a License)

4 32. Respondent is subject to disciplinary action under section 2234, subdivision (f) of the 5 Code in that he committed conduct that would have warranted denial of a license. The 6 circumstances are as follows:

7 33. Paragraphs 8 through 25 are incorporated as if fully set forth herein.

8 34. Respondent's conduct in his care and treatment of CP would have warranted denial of 9 a license, for his acts including, but not limited to, the following:

10 a. Having sexual relations with a patient;

11 b. Communicating with a patient using sexually explicit and unprofessional language;

12 c. Using his position of power and privileged information to exploit a psychiatric patient;

13 d. Meeting with a psychiatric patient outside the treatment setting;

14 e. Purchasing and giving gifts to a psychiatric patient;

15 f. Practicing outside his area of professional competence without supervision;

16 g. Disclosing sensitive, personal information about himself, coworkers and other patients;

17 and

18 h. Contacting a former patient without her consent after termination of the treatment.

19 FIFTH CAUSE FOR DISCIPLINE

20 (Acts of Dishonesty and Corruption)

21 35. Respondent is subject to disciplinary action under section 2234, subdivision (e) in that 22 he committed acts of dishonesty and corruption. The circumstances are as follows:

23 36. On or about January 20, 2016, CP sent an email to administrators at UPA and 24 Respondent's residency program, explaining that she had a sexual relationship with Respondent
25 while he was a resident and while he was treating her through the UPA. She explained that she 26 had not felt comfortable reporting the conduct during the summer, but that upon reflection she 27 realized she needed to protect future patients in the event that Respondent may act similarly with 28 other patients. The Director of the UCSF Fresno Psychiatry Residency Program began an

1 immediate investigation into CP's allegations. On the following morning, before the Director
2 contacted Respondent, Respondent sent a text message to the Director stating, "May I see you for 3 a few minutes this morning at 8. Need to do some explaining and set things right regarding the 4 malicious manipulation that is occurring vis-à-vis a patient." The Director set up a meeting with 5 Respondent for noon.

6 37. On or about January 21, 2016, Respondent met with the Director and another UPA
7 administrator for approximately 90 minutes to discuss CP's complaint. Respondent was informed
8 that a former patient had alleged that he and she were in a sexual relationship during therapy
9 sessions, and that she had provided text messages showing erotic communications between her 10 cell phone and his personal cell phone. During the meeting Respondent began by denying, and 11 then eventually admitting some of the specific details of CP's complaint. For example, he 12 initially denied that he purchased a sex toy for CP on Amazon.com during a therapy session, but 13 later clarified that he had gone onto the Amazon.com website during a session to point out a 14 particular vibrator that he recommended and had recommended to his girlfriend. When asked
15 whether he gave CP an iTunes gift card, he initially said he had not, then stated he could not 16 recall, and later indicated that he may have done so. When asked whether he had sent erotic text 17 messages to CP, he admitted that he done so, but claimed that they were merely a form of 18 therapeutic "role playing" to assist her with her emotional state. He denied that he ever went to 19 CP's house, or that he had any form of sexual contact with her.

20 38. On or about the evening of January 21, 2016, Respondent sent an email to the 21 Director and other administrators, stating:

22 First of all the messages were sent by me and this is what transpired. The last 3 or 4 23 sessions with this patient were focused mostly on one main theme and that was her 24 intense all consuming "sexual fantasies" she was having about me ever since she 25 began therapy. The text messages were a compromise in that all they did was 26 represent an innocent approach by me—suggested by her—that was far short of an 25 actual physical encounter. No such physical or sexual encounter ever took place.

26 These phone text messages that went back and forth were "electronic fantasy 27 fulfillment" and that's all it was. The patient and I both felt it would help her.

27 39. On or about April 5, 2018, Respondent was interviewed by an Investigator working 28 on behalf of the Board. At that interview, Respondent denied that he had ever sent sexually

1 explicit texts or emails to CP. He denied that he ever texted her about sexual fantasies or sex acts
2 he planned to perform on her. When presented with printouts of emails sent between CP and 3 him, Respondent denied he had ever written or read the texts before, and claimed that CP must 4 have fabricated or falsified the content of the messages to make it appear that he had sent and 5 received text messages with explicit content with CP. During the interview Respondent claimed
6 that CP was seriously mentally and emotionally disturbed, and had made numerous disclosures
7 regarding previous severe abuse and trauma. None of these serious diagnoses or disclosures were 8 contained in the records Respondent maintained of CP's care and treatment at UPA. Respondent
9 claimed that it was because of these serious mental and emotional conditions that CP had 10 fabricated the allegations and false records of their communications.

11 40. Paragraphs 8 through 34, above, are incorporated herein as if fully set forth.

12 41. Respondent's conduct, as set forth above, constitutes acts of dishonesty and 13 corruption in violation of section 2234, subdivision (e) of the Code, thus subjecting Respondent's 14 license to discipline.

15 SIXTH CAUSE FOR DISCIPLINE

16 (General Unprofessional Conduct)

17 42. Respondent is subject to disciplinary action under section 2234 in that he has engaged

20 unfitness to practice medicine, as alleged in paragraphs 8 through 41 above, which are 21 incorporated by reference and realleged as if fully set forth here.
