FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

Patient 1:

11. Patient 1,[1] a then 22-year-old female, presented to the emergency department of UCLA-Santa Monica Medical Center on or about September 3, 2015, with complaints of severe abdominal/pelvic pain and mild vaginal spotting. Patient 1 advised her caregivers that she had newly arrived to the United States and spoke limited English. Patient 1 was examined in the emergency department and an assessment of pelvic inflammatory disease, presumed complicated with possible bilateral tubo-ovarian abscesses, was rendered. Patient 1 also had a positive urine PCR test for Chlamydia. Patient 1 was admitted to the hospital for further care, including a gynecological consultation/examination.

[1] The patients are identified in this Accusation by number for privacy purposes.

1 12. On or about September 3, 2015, Patient 1 and her two girlfriends were sleeping in her
2 patient room at UCLA-Santa Monica Medical Center. Respondent walked into Patient 1's room,
3 slapped one of her friends on her buttocks and stated, "wake-up, this isn't a hotel." Respondent
4 was accompanied by a male nurse. Neither the nurse, nor Respondent, introduced themselves to 5 Patient 1. Respondent then asked Patient 1 to sit on a urine specimen cup so he could better
6 conduct an examination of her genitals. Patient 1's friends were not asked to leave the room.
7 Respondent conducted the gynecological examination without first asking for Patient 1's consent
8 to do so, without asking Patient 1 if she consented to a male nurse, and if she consented to have 9 her friends in the room during the examination. Patient 1 felt exposed and embarrassed; she was 10 also in severe pain. Following the procedure, Respondent elected to remove Patient 1's
11 intrauterine device (IUD). During the IUD removal procedure, Patient 1 experienced extreme
12 pain. She was crying and scared because she did not understand what was going on. Respondent
13 did not explain to Patient 1 what he was about to do, or if he did, Patient 1 did not understand
14 because she did not speak English well. Throughout the patient encounter, Patient 1 was never 15 offered an interpreter. Patient 1 began to scream, tried to push herself away from Respondent, 16 and was kicking and "hammering the bed" with her hands. She screamed for Respondent to,
17 "stop, please stop, please stop, it hurts." Respondent continued with the procedure and forcibly
18 removed the IUD. According to Patient 1, she tried to close her legs to keep Respondent away,
19 but Respondent firmly held her legs open. Patient 1 also believes that Respondent used his hands
20 to remove her IUD. However, there is no procedure note that details Respondent's removal of the 21 IUD, or how the patient tolerated the procedure.

22 13. Following the IUD removal, Patient 1 flung herself off the bed. She reported feeling
23 violated, and humiliated. Respondent told her to, "stop being so dramatic," and left the room.
24 Patient 1 felt belittled. Patient 1 was left crying on her patient room floor. Her friends were also
25 horrified and crying. One friend stated that she felt as if she had watched someone being raped
26 and could do nothing.

27 14. Later that night, Patient 1 told hospital staff that she did not want to receive further 28 treatment from Respondent, because she was terrified of him. Patient 1 spoke with her night nurse, a nursing supervisor, and uniformed officers and reported what had transpired that morning.

15. Respondent documented in Patient 1's chart, "remove IUD and send for cultures." There is no documentation of an informed consent for the gynecological examination or IUD removal. There is no documentation that a chaperone was present. Respondent did not document if he offered Patient 1 a language translator. The "Procedure Note" area is left blank.

16. The next morning, on or about September 4, 2015, Respondent walked into Patient 1's hospital room and awakened her. Patient 1 froze. A nurse came and escorted Respondent out of Patient 1's room and admonished him that he knew he was not to see Patient 1.

17. Patient 1 reports that she had no discussion with Respondent regarding her medical history. Respondent did not advise her of the results of the tests that were conducted the prior night in the emergency department. Nevertheless, Respondent documented Patient 1's medical history as, "indicated sexually active with an IUD ParaGard, unprotected sex with multiple partners." The plan indicated: "IUD removal, to send for culture and sensitivity." Respondent also noted that Patient 1 was a non-smoker. Throughout her chart it is noted that Patient 1 "admits to active tobacco use."

18. On or about February 20 2019, Patient 1 wrote a negative "Yelp" review about Respondent. A photo of Patient 1's face is fully visible. Her full name is identifiable.

19. Respondent replied to Patient 1's negative "Yelp" review on or about February 26, 2019. He acknowledges that he was her treating physician at UCLA-Santa Monica Hospital. He disclosed her symptoms and that she was admitted for severe pelvic pain and an infection, due to a complication of an IUD. Respondent disclosed Patient 1's personal confidential contraceptive choice, her treatment plan, including the use of antibiotics, the medical concern for sepsis, and the need for the IUD removal. All of this information appeared on the Yelp website.

20. Respondent disclosed Patient 1's personal health information, which was and is protected under HIPAA (Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996).

Patient 2:

21. Patient 2, a then 40-year-old female, was under the care of Respondent's partner, Dr. P.S., for treatment of endometriosis. She was managed on Orilissa, an oral medication. To better assist in the management of the endometriosis pain, a Mirena IUD was inserted on or about July 17, 2019.

22. On or about August 8, 2019, Patient 2 telephoned Dr. P.S. to inform her that she was experiencing heavy bleeding and she believed that the IUD was expelling from her cervix. On or about August 10, 2019, Dr. P.S. called Patient 2 and advised her to come in to the office for an examination and possible removal of the IUD. An appointment was made for Monday, August 12, 2019 at 10:30 a.m. Patient 2 believed that she would be seeing Dr. P.S. on August 12th.

23. On or about August 12, 2019, Patient 2 arrived for her appointment at Women's Healthcare Associates of Santa Monica. She was placed in a room by a nurse, given a gown and drape, and asked to disrobe.

24. Respondent entered Patient 2's examination room. He did not introduce himself and Patient 2 had never met Respondent at her prior visits to Women's Healthcare Associates of Santa Monica. Patient 2 was not offered a chaperone. Patient 2 recalls her legs in stirrups and Respondent asking her to slide her bottom down. Those were the only words Respondent spoke to Patient 2 prior to the transvaginal sonogram, [2] pelvic examination, and IUD removal procedure.

25. Respondent inserted a transvaginal sonogram transducer and moved it in an aggressive and forceful manner, according to Patient 2. Each time the transducer struck the expelling IUD, it caused her severe pain, leaving her sobbing. The results of the transvaginal sonogram indicated that the IUD was in the cervical canal and revealed that Patient 2 had bilateral ovarian cysts. Respondent did not obtain an informed consent from Patient 2 for a transvaginal sonogram.

26. After Respondent concluded the transvaginal sonogram he inserted a speculum into Patient 2's vagina. He repeatedly removed and reinserted the speculum several times, causing

[2] Transvaginal sonogram or ultrasound is an internal scan of the female reproductive organs. It involves inserting a probe or transducer into the vagina to produce detailed images of the organs of the female pelvic region.

Patient 2 additional discomfort and pain. Patient 2 asked Respondent to stop, but he did not. Respondent did not address Patient 2. Once he had the speculum in place, Respondent opened the treatment room door, leaving Patient 2 exposed to anyone walking in the hallway. Respondent yelled out for a nurse to assist him, because he encountered significant bleeding. Respondent's comment frightened Patient 2. Respondent did not obtain an informed consent from Patient 2 for the speculum examination.

27. Respondent returned to Patient 2, and using the same gloved hand that he used to perform the transvaginal sonogram and open the examination room door, inserted his hand into Patient 2's vagina and pulled out the IUD. Patient 2 saw that Respondent discarded the bloody IUD in the waste bin. Respondent did not obtain an informed consent from Patient 2 for an IUD removal procedure.

28. Patient 2 was sobbing from the pain. Respondent got up and noticed that Patient 2 was crying and inquired why. Patient 2 stated, "all of this; all of it." Respondent told Patient 2 to, "pull herself together and meet him in his office." Patient 2 felt humiliated, dehumanized, and horrified by the experience.

29. Later that day, Patient 2 received an online request from Women's Healthcare Associates of Santa Monica to review her appointment. Patient 2 gave an honest review and commented about how horrible the experience was for her. She received a call from Respondent the following day, on or about August 13, 2019. Respondent stated that he would send Patient 2 a letter to better account for his conduct, but indicated that he had been experiencing back pain and made an emergency appointment for himself.

30. Patient 2 thought that she would be receiving an email response from Respondent. Having not heard from him, she posted a negative review on Yelp on or about August 16, 2019. On or about August 20, 2019, Patient 2 received letters of apology from Respondent and Dr. P.S.

31. In her Yelp review a photo of Patient 2's face is fully visible. Her first name is identifiable, followed by the first initial of her last name.

32. Respondent responded to Patient 2's negative Yelp review on or about October 2, 2019. He reported that he had been in severe pain that day and that it had impacted his behavior.

He added that he set up an appointment with his spine specialist for that day. Respondent went on to post a copy of the apology letter he sent to Patient 2, which included information regarding her private medical history, the dislodged Mirena IUD, her treatment, including inserting the speculum two to three times to visualize her cervix. Respondent discussed Patient 2's bilateral ovarian cysts, the IUD removal and her follow up plan. All of this information appeared on the Yelp website.

33. Respondent disclosed Patient 2's personal health information, which was and is protected under HIPAA.

FIRST CAUSE FOR DISCIPLINE

(Gross Negligence)

34. Respondent Doron Blumenfeld, M.D. is subject to disciplinary action under section 2234, subdivision (b) of the Code in that his care and treatment of Patients 1 and 2 was grossly negligent. The circumstances are as follows:

35. Respondent is an obstetrician and gynecologist. His California Physician's and Surgeon's Certificate is currently in retired status. Prior thereto, he was in private practice in Santa Monica with Women's Healthcare Associates of Santa Monica.

36. The facts and allegations set forth in paragraphs 11 through 33, above, are realleged herein as if fully set forth.

Lack of Informed Consent

37. Prior to performing any gynecologic examination, including a transvaginal sonogram, a pelvic examination, and IUD removal procedure, an informed consent discussion should be conducted between the OB/GYN and the patient. That discussion should be documented.

38. According to the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists Committee Opinion 819, Committee on Ethics, entitled Informed Consent and Shared Decision Making in Obstetrics and Gynecology (ACOG-819): "the goal of the 'informed consent process' is to provide patients with information that is necessary and relevant to their decision making (including the risks and benefits of accepting or declining recommended treatment) and to assist the patient in identifying the best course of action for their medical care. Shared decision making should be patient focused and involves the discussion of the benefits, risks of the available treatment, as well as alternatives. The informed consent conversation should be documented in the medical record."

39. According to ACOG-819, the OB/GYN should provide adequate, accurate and understandable information and requires that the patient can understand and reason through the information. The patient should be free to ask questions and to make an intentional and voluntary choice, which may include refusal of care or treatment.

40. ACOG-819 further provides that: "to meet the requirements of the disclosure of accurate and comprehensive information, the counseling OG/GYN should engage in effective patient centered and culturally responsive communication. The patient should also have adequate understanding of the language used by their OB/GYN during the informed consent process. To help avoid miscommunication related to language differences, a professional medical interpreter should be made available in person, by phone, or through video remote technology to assist with the informed consent."

41. At any time during the doctor-patient relationship, the patient has the right to withdraw consent to be seen and/or receive treatment from the physician. Respect for patient autonomy is one of the pillars of medical ethics. Self-determination and informed consent without fear or coercion is of paramount importance.

Patient 1:

42. Respondent failed to obtain and document an informed consent from Patient 1 for a pelvic examination and the IUD removal procedure. There was no discussion of risks, benefits, or alternatives to the examination or procedure. Patient 1 reported that English was her second language and she only understood simple English, as she was a newcomer to the United States. Accordingly, Respondent should have offered Patient 1 an interpreter. Alternatively, Respondent should have ensured that Patient 1 understood the proposed procedure in simple, layperson's terms. During the IUD removal procedure Patient 1 repeatedly asked Respondent to stop. Her strong pleas, crying, and physical resistance were ignored by Respondent.

43. Respondent's failure to obtain and document an informed consent from Patient 1 for the pelvic examination and the IUD removal procedure is an extreme departure from the standard of care.

Patient 2:

44. Patient 2 states that she was never provided an informed consent to any of the procedures performed by Respondent on or about August 12, 2019. Respondent did not document an informed consent in Patient 2's medical chart. Respondent did not obtain an informed consent from Patient 2 for the transvaginal sonogram, the speculum assisted pelvic examination, or the IUD removal procedure. When Patient 2 asked Respondent to stop inserting the speculum into her vagina, he ignored her.

45. Respondent's failure to obtain and document an informed consent from Patient 2 for the transvaginal sonogram, the speculum assisted pelvic examination, and the IUD removal procedure, is an extreme departure from the standard of care.

HIPAA Violation

46. The Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996 (HIPAA) is a national standard that protects sensitive patient health information from being disclosed without the patient's consent or knowledge. Protected health information (PHI) is considered to be individually identifiable information relating to the past, present, or future health status of an individual that is created, collected, transmitted, or maintained by a HIPAA-covered entity in relation to the provision of healthcare payment for healthcare services, or use in healthcare operations. Health information such as diagnoses, treatment information, medical test results, and prescription information are considered protected health information under HIPAA.

47. When responding to a patient's online comments or reviews, the health care professional should always maintain his or her professionalism and never disclose a patient's protected health information.

Patient 1:

48. Respondent's disclosure of Patient 1's protected health information in an online Yelp response is a violation of HIPAA and is an extreme departure from the standard of care.

Patient 2:

49. Respondent's disclosure of Patient 2's protected health information in an online Yelp response is a violation of HIPAA and is an extreme departure from the standard of care.

Sexual Misconduct

50. Sexual misconduct by a physician is considered an abuse of professional power and a violation of patient trust. According to the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologist Committee Opinion 796, Committee on Ethics on Sexual Misconduct (ACOG-796): "physical examinations should be explained appropriately, undertaken only with the patient's consent, and performed with the minimal amount of physical contact required to obtain data for diagnosis and treatment. Draping of the patient should occur to minimize exposure. A chaperone is recommended for all breast and pelvic examinations. Appropriate explanation should accompany all examinations and procedures." ACOG-796 reiterates that examination of the breasts or genitals without appropriate consent from a patient or surrogate decision maker qualifies as sexual misconduct under categories of sexual impropriety and sexual violation.

Patient 1:

51. Respondent failed to explain to Patient 1 that he was going to conduct a pelvic examination on her and obtain her informed consent. He then failed to explain the IUD removal procedure and obtain Patient 1's consent. Respondent did not document an informed consent in Patient 1's medical record. Patient 1 was unaware of what Respondent was doing to her and felt violated, humiliated, and traumatized by the procedures. Patient 1 spoke only limited English with little understanding of medical terminology. She was not provided a medical translator to obtain her informed consent. During the IUD removal procedure, Patient 1 repeatedly asked Respondent to terminate the procedure. Nevertheless, Respondent forcibly continued the procedure against Patient 1's wishes.

52. Conducting a procedure without an informed consent and against the express wishes of the patient constitutes sexual misconduct and is an extreme departure from the standard of care. Forcibly removing an IUD from a patient against her wishes constitutes sexual misconduct and is an extreme departure from the standard of care.

Inappropriate IUD Removal

53. Prior to performing an IUD removal procedure, the OB/GYN should introduce themselves to their patient and provide a full informed consent. The physician should obtain a medical history from the patient. The patient should also be offered a chaperone. The patient should be appropriately draped to protect their privacy. When performing the procedure, the OB/GYN should explain the steps taking place to prevent any misunderstandings.

54. In the situation of a displaced IUD, it is customary and common practice to perform a speculum pelvic examination before a transvaginal sonogram. The cervix and surrounding tissue, as well as the partially displaced IUD should be visualized (if possible). Insertion of the ultrasound transducer prior to visual inspection of the cervix and vaginal tissue may cause additional tissue damage, trauma, or harm since a displaced/partially expulsed IUD may be moved or hit by the ultrasound transducer.

55. It is common practice that when removing the IUD, the strings are grasped by a medical instrument. Gloves that are worn for a pelvic examination should be discarded and replaced once the exam is terminated. Fresh gloves should be used for the next procedure. A detailed procedure note of the IUD removal should be included in the medical record.

Patient 2:

56. Respondent did not introduce himself when he first encountered Patient 2. He did not obtain an informed consent from Patient 2 for any of the examinations or procedures he conducted. He did not obtain a medical history from Patient 2. He never offered Patient 2 a chaperone. Respondent left Patient 2 exposed in stirrups when he opened the examination room door and called for a nurse.

57. Respondent inappropriately performed the transvaginal sonogram prior to performing the speculum pelvic examination on Patient 2 and the ultrasound transducer exacerbated Patient 2's pain. Respondent did not change gloves between examinations, procedures, or after he opened the examination room door. Respondent did not advise Patient 2 of the medical steps he was about to take so she would understand what was about to occur during her examinations and treatment. This caused Patient 2 to be scared, upset, and feel dehumanized. Respondent did not document a procedure note.

58. Respondent's failure to perform and document an appropriate IUD removal procedure is an extreme departure from the standard of care.

Provider Impairment

59. Provider impairment includes issues relating to mental and physical impairment. A physician's personal health problems, including injury, aging, burnout, circadian rhythm disruption, substance use disorders, and other conditions can detract from a physician's performance and can interfere with a physician's ability to safely engage in patient care.

Patient 2:

60. Respondent admitted to Patient 2, verbally and in writing, that he was in severe pain during her visit on or about August 12, 2019, and that his back pain had an impact on his behavior. Respondent admitted that his behavior was wrong. He acknowledged that he did not introduce himself to Patient 2, he did not read her file, and he was rushed during her visit. Respondent further acknowledged that he did not follow up with Patient 2's response when he asked her why she was crying. Respondent notes in his letter that his pain was so severe he "set up an emergency visit with his spine specialist that day."

61. Respondent's self-report of physical impairment of severe back pain on or about August 12, 2019, which directly impacted his behavior and resulted in harm to Patient 2, is an extreme departure from the standard of care.

SECOND CAUSE FOR DISCIPLINE

(Repeated Negligent Acts)

62. Respondent Doron Blumenfeld, M.D. is subject to disciplinary action under section 2234, subdivision (c) of the Code in that he provided negligent care and treatment to Patients 1 and 2. The circumstances are as follows:

He then failed to explain the IUD removal procedure and obtain Patient 1's consent. Respondent did not document an informed consent in Patient 1's medical record. Patient 1 was unaware of what Respondent was doing to her and she felt violated, humiliated and traumatized by the procedures. Patient 1 spoke only limited English with little understanding of medical terminology. She was not provided a medical translator to obtain her informed consent. During the IUD removal procedure Patient 1 repeatedly asked Respondent to terminate the procedure. Nevertheless, Respondent forcibly continued the procedure against Patient 1's wishes. Respondent also failed to ensure Patient 1's privacy; he conducted a gynecological examination and procedure in front of her friends.

69. Conducting a procedure without obtaining an informed consent and against the express wishes of the patient constitutes sexual misconduct. Forcibly removing an IUD from a patient against her wishes constitutes sexual misconduct.

Patient 2:

70. Respondent performed a transvaginal sonogram on Patient 2 followed by a speculum assisted pelvic examination without an informed consent. Respondent then performed an IUD removal procedure on Patient 2 without an informed consent. This constitutes sexual misconduct.

71. Respondent continued with a speculum insertion on Patient 2, during which she repeatedly requested that the procedure be terminated. Respondent continued with the procedure against Patient 2's wishes. This constitutes sexual misconduct.

FOURTH CAUSE FOR DISCIPLINE

(Unprofessional Conduct)

72. Respondent has further subjected his Physician's and Surgeon's Certificate No. A 45201to disciplinary action under sections 2227, 2234, 2234, subdivision (a), and 2228.1 of the Code, in that he engaged in conduct which breached the rules or ethical code of the medical profession or which was unbecoming a member in good standing of the medical profession, and which demonstrates an unfitness to practice medicine. 74. The facts and allegations set forth in paragraphs 11 through 33, above, are realleged herein as if fully set forth.

75. The American Board of Internal Medicine (AMIB) established Project Professionalism, which sought to define the components of medical professionalism, including altruism, accountability, excellence, duty; honor/integrity, and respect.

Patient 1:

76. Respondent demonstrated unprofessional conduct in his care and treatment of Patient 1 by slapping her friend on her buttocks to wake up Patient 1 and her friends on September 3, 2015, in failing to introduce himself to Patient 1, and in failing to demonstrate empathy for Patient 1 when she was emotional and crying during the IUD removal procedure. Respondent was also dismissive of Patient 1 in telling her "not to be dramatic," following the IUD removal procedure. Respondent also did not ask Patient 1's friends to leave her room before he performed a private gynecological examination and procedure on Patient 1. Respondent's unprofessional conduct resulted in harm to Patient 1.

Patient 2:

77. Respondent demonstrated unprofessional conduct in his care and treatment of Patient 2 on or about August 12, 2019, by failing to introduce himself to her, by rushing through her examinations and procedure, by leaving her exposed and not ensuring her privacy, and in failing to demonstrate empathy for Patient 2 when she was emotional and crying during the speculum examination and IUD removal procedure. Respondent was also dismissive of Patient 2 in telling her to "pull herself together" following her IUD removal procedure. Respondent's unprofessional conduct resulted in harm to Patient 2.

81. The standard of care calls for a physician to maintain adequate and accurate medical records for his or her patients.
