20 Patient 1:²

21 14. Patient 1³ worked as an office clerk at Respondent's neurology medical office 22 from approximately 1989 through 1995. She had a friendly relationship with Respondent and 23 considered him to be a friend.

24 ¹ One of the patients complained to the Board in 2017 that Respondent engaged in sexual 25 misconduct during years of examinations.

26 ² For privacy purposes, the patients in this Accusation are referred to as Patients 1, 2, and 3, with their identities disclosed to Respondent in discovery.

27 ³ Patient 1's factual allegations against Respondent are barred by the relevant statute of 28 limitations. The facts and circumstances alleged against Respondent by Patient 1 are set forth herein to demonstrate Respondent's pattern and practice, and sexual proclivities with his patients.

1 15. Patient 1 began seeing Respondent for medical care in approximately 1999
2 through January 6, 2014 for an elbow injury, headaches, neck pain, and depression. They 3 continued to have a friendly relationship and Patient 1 considered him a friend.

4 16. At Patient 1's medical appointments with Respondent, he would tell her that he 5 loved her. Respondent's wife was his office manager. Respondent would tell Patient 1 that his 6 wife was not having sex with him and would tell Patient 1 that she should have sex with him. He 7 would also ask her to go to Las Vegas with him. Patient 1 thought that Respondent was being 8 overly friendly and flirting. She ignored the comments, did not have sex with him, and did not go 9 to Las Vegas with him.

10 17. During an examination in 2013, Respondent noticed that Patient 1 did not shave 11 her vagina and told her that he hated when women shaved their vaginas. Patient 1 did not 12 respond to his comment.

13 18. In approximately 2013, Respondent's friendliness with Patient 1 became more 14 physical. He began kissing her cheeks and massaging her shoulders and back, down to her 15 buttocks, when she would see him for medical appointments.

16 19. In December 2013, Patient 1 injured herself after tripping and falling to the 17 ground. She was treated in the emergency room.

18 20. Patient 1 saw Respondent approximately 10 days later, on January 6, 2014, 19 because she was having neck pain, back pain, and headaches. Patient 1 was taken to an 20 examination room by Respondent's medical assistant, told to change into a gown and that 21 Respondent would be in to see her. She changed into the gown and removed her undergarments, 22 including her underwear. She was sitting on the examination table when Respondent entered the 23 examination room. Respondent told Patient 1 to stand so he could check her back. Patient 1, 24 upset about her injuries, started crying. Respondent stood in front of Patient 1 with his hands on 25 her neck massaging the area. He asked if it hurt, then moved his hands to Patient 1's back still 26 asking her if it hurt. He untied the gown and moved his hands to her breasts. He kissed her lips 27 and then started kissing her breasts while moving one of his hands around her thigh and groin.
28 He then inserted one of his fingers into Patient 1's vagina, digitally penetrating her. With his

1 other hand, Respondent grabbed Patient 1's hand and placed her hand on his pants. He undid his 2 belt and zipper and pulled his penis out. Patient 1 told Respondent to stop. Patient 1 left 3 Respondent's office and did not return. She was afraid and did not want to get Respondent in 4 trouble.

5 Patient 2:

6 21. Respondent was Patient 2's physician from approximately 2014 to 2016. He treated 7 her for migraine headaches.

8 22. Patient 2 described Respondent as personable and friendly during her medical 9 appointments. Respondent would often ask about her personal life and marriage. Respondent 10 would also share personal information about himself. He told Patient 2 that he had prostate 11 cancer and had to wear pads because he had leakage. He also told Patient 2 that he was 12 considering a penile implant because he was unable to get an erection.

13 23. During an appointment in 2016, Patient 2 told Respondent about marital problems
14 that she was experiencing. While Patient 2 spoke with Respondent, he appeared to be touching 15 himself underneath his lab coat. Patient 2 thought that she misinterpreted his actions since he had 16 prostate cancer and could not get an erection.

17 24. At the end of another appointment, in approximately October 2016, Respondent
18 pulled Patient 2 to him and kissed her as she was leaving. She panicked, pulled away, and walked 19 out of the examination room to the front counter to get her bill. She was shocked that Respondent 20 kissed her but did not say anything about it to his medical assistant/receptionist.

21 25. The following morning, Respondent called Patient 2 on her cell phone and 22 apologized for kissing her. Patient 2 said that it was fine and quickly hung up.

23 26. Given Respondent's apology and her need for migraine treatment, Patient 2 kept 24 her next appointment with Respondent, scheduled for November 2016. During her appointment, 25 Respondent told her that she was a beautiful woman and that she should have a good man. At the 26 end of the appointment, when she was getting ready to exit the examination room, Respondent 27 told her that he wanted to do one more thorough exam. He told her to lie on her back on the 28 examination table. After Patient 2 laid down, Respondent lifted her dress and began to perform

1 oral sex on her. She told him to stop, got up and left his office. When Patient 2 got home, she 2 was too scared to tell her husband or son what had happen. That was her last medical 3 appointment with Respondent.

4 Patient 3:

5 27. In 2009, Patient 3 was experiencing headaches and her primary care physician, 6 J.S., M.D., referred her to Respondent.

7 28. In approximately June of 2009, Patient 3 was first seen by Respondent at his 8 office. She was examined by Respondent and he prescribed Depakote to treat her headaches.
9 She continued to have her headaches treated by Respondent and underwent trials of different 10 medications for the headaches.

11 29. In approximately August 2016, Patient 3 saw Respondent at his office to treat her 12 headaches and to find out the result of a recently completed MRI. Respondent asked her about 13 her headaches and blood pressure as well as how things were going in her life. Patient 3 told 14 Respondent that she was worried about her husband's health. Respondent told Patient 3 that she 15 was like a 50-year-old little girl. Patient 3 did not know what he meant by the comment and did 16 not ask for clarification. She ignored the comment but it made her uncomfortable.

17 30. Patient 3's next medical appointment with Respondent was in September 2016.
18 She was sitting on the examination table in the examination room with Respondent standing in 19 front of her performing an eye examination. While checking Patient 3's eyes, Respondent put his 20 right hand on her left leg. Respondent then told Patient 3 that she needed to be loved and she 21 needed someone to love her. Patient 3 ignored the comments, as she felt that she had a good 22 patient-physician relationship with Respondent and trusted him.

23 31. When Patient 3 next saw Respondent in approximately October 2016 for a medical 24 appointment, he again told Patient 3 that she needed someone who could love and caress her.
25 Patient 3 told Respondent that he could say that to his wife, but not to say it to her again. After 26 Patient 3 left the appointment, Respondent called her and asked if she was uncomfortable with 27 what he had said. She told him that he needed to drop the issue and not say that kind of stuff to 28 her again.

1 32. When Patient 3 saw Respondent for a medical appointment in early 2017, she 2 asked if he was all right, as he did not have immediate appointments available when she called to 3 make an appointment. Respondent told Patient 3 that he had prostate cancer. She said that she 4 was sorry and asked if he would be all right. He then told Patient 3 that he was having leaking
5 problems and was in pain. She told him that she is not his doctor and he is sharing too much 6 information.

7 33. Also in early 2017, Patient 3's husband had a triple bypass surgery on his heart.
8 She was very stressed and having horrible headaches. She made a medical appointment with 9 Respondent to address her horrible headaches. At her appointment, Respondent told Patient 3 10 that she was a 50-year-old little girl who needed to be loved, caressed, and held. Patient 3 told 11 Respondent that he needed to stop making those comments. Patient 3 asked him to focus on her 12 health. Respondent then apologized to Patient 3 for his inappropriate comments.

13 34. At another appointment in 2017, Respondent asked about Patient 3's husband.
14 She told Respondent that her husband was having tremors in his hands. Respondent told Patient 15 3 to make an appointment to have her husband see him. A couple of days later, Respondent 16 showed up at Patient 3's house without an invitation and said he was there to check on her 17 husband. Respondent had his stethoscope with him and examined Patient 3's husband. He then 18 prescribed medication for Patient 3's husband.

19 35. In March of 2017, Respondent called Patient 3 and asked how her husband was 20 doing. He said that he was in the neighborhood and wanted to check on her husband.
21 Respondent then showed up at Patient 3's house and examined her husband. By May of 2017, 22 Patient 3's husband had recovered from this heart surgery and returned to work.

23 36. In approximately May of 2017, Patient 3 saw Respondent at his office for a 24 medical appointment. In the examination room, Respondent again told Patient 3 that she was like 25 a 50-year-old girl and that she needed to be loved and caressed. Respondent then put his hands 26 on Patient 3's shoulders to give her a hug. He told her that everything was going to be all right.
27 He then said that he would treat Patient 3 at home and that her husband did not have to be there.

28 ///

1 37. Thereafter, Respondent called Patient 3 while her husband was at work. She told 2 Respondent that her husband was at home resting because she was afraid that Respondent would 3 show up at her house if she said that her husband was not home.

4 38. In approximately August of 2017, Patient 3 was experiencing neck pain and made 5 an appointment to see Respondent. She wore loose fitting shorts to the appointment. While in 6 the examination room, sitting on the examination table, Respondent put his hands on Patient 3's 7 legs. He moved his left hand up her right thigh underneath her shorts. His hand reached up to 8 where her pubic hair started. Patient 3 shifted backwards and Respondent looked at her. Patient 9 3 then told him that he needed to get a life. Respondent asked Patient 3 if she was uncomfortable.
10 She responded that she was uncomfortable and he apologized. He then told Patient 3 that she 11 needed to be loved. Patient 3 asked Respondent if those were the only words in his vocabulary 12 and he apologized. Patient 3 then left Respondent's office.

13 39. At another medical appointment in 2017, on a date that Patient 3 cannot recall, 14 Respondent tried to kiss her while she sat on the examination table in the examination room. She 15 backed away. She could feel Respondent's penis on her leg through his pants. His penis did not 16 feel erect. Patient 3 gave Respondent a dirty look and left the office.

17 40. In approximately November or December 2017, Patient 3 made a medical 18 appointment to see Respondent about her headaches and neck pain. Patient 3 brought her friend, 19 P.E., to the appointment. Ms. E. accompanied Patient 3 to the examination room and sat in a 20 chair in the room while Patient 3 sat on the examination table. When Respondent entered the 21 room, Ms. E. was talking on her cell phone. Respondent examined Patient 3's eyes, ears and 22 throat. She told him about her headaches and neck pain. Respondent then put both of his hands 23 on Patient 3's legs and told her that she needed to be loved, caressed, and held so that someone 24 could show her that they love her. When she felt his hands on her legs, Patient 3 closed her eyes 25 and moved back on the table. Ms. E. hung up her cellphone, pushed Respondent's hand away, 26 and asked what all of that was about. Respondent appeared startled by Ms. E.'s question. Patient 27 3 then said, "Let's go." to Ms. E. and they left Respondent's office. That was Patient 3's last visit 28 with Respondent.
